This hour of Free Talk Live is brought to you by DASH – Digital Cash. DASH is the cryptocurrency designed to be used for spending. Rising fees have made bitcoin useless for purchases, but DASH continues to have fees less than one cent per transaction and its features ensure DASH is undefeated as the most useful cryptocurrency in the marketplace.

From a technical standpoint, DASH transactions are irreversible and its network is protected from 51% attacks by their Chainlocks technology. There's no need to wait for a confirmation before considering a DASH transaction complete, so it's great for merchants.

DASH is one of the oldest cryptocurrencies and is widely available on exchanges – including the decentralized Maya Protocol - and in multi-crypto wallets. It's easy to get, and use DASH. Start by learning more at DASH.org

Tired of the ever-inflating US Dollar? You can live your life on DASH instead with some handy websites:

BitRefill.com has been accepting DASH for years and has a ton of big name retailers and brands including grocers, gas stations, phone refills, amazon, and even prepaid mastercards. Plus, many of their gift cards are available at a discount.

What about paying your bills? Spritz.finance can do that and they can send dollars to your bank account in case you still need those for some reason.

In addition to being one of the world's first cryptocurrencies, DASH was the first crypto project to have a Decentralized Autonomous Organization that to this day continues to improve and promote DASH. Every month, 10% of the mining rewards go into a treasury. Anyone with one DASH to spend can put forward a proposal to the DASH Masternodes. The Masternodes vet the proposals and decide which ones move forward and are funded by the treasury. Nowadays, DAOs are plentiful, but DASH paved the way by doing it first, nearly a decade ago.
